

ONE OF THE RUSSELL'S DAIRY MILK WAGONS. Snapshot in the collection of James and Walter Russell, copy print by Donald W. Powell. James Russell, younger son of Spencer and Lois (Bennett) Russell told Donald Powell that he believes that the house in the background to be 56 Belmont Street, the house in which he was born. The driver of this milk wagon and the horse have not yet been identified. The wagon is similar to, although somewhat older than, the wagon that was driven by Gabriel Costanzo on his Russell's milk route on Carbondale's west side.
